Such competitions would be organized from the village level upwards up to the All-India level for different categories of players like men, women, juniors and sub-juniors, veterans, and the physically challenged. In many cases, corporate sponsors step in to provide resources to sportspersons to train and gain international exposures in return for commercial endorsements and brand ambassador duties for the sponsors. While this has been helpful in individual cases, the sponsors usually select glamorous sports and sportspersons. This may not always lead to the most desirable results or to the most deserving sports persons.

Counselling for making a career in sports with a clear understanding on the financial and academic arrangements would determine the selection of the talented youngsters. The selected youngsters would then be admitted to specialised sports schools or academies which combine a strict sports regime with a normal academic curriculum.

31. SPORTS SCHOOLS AND ACADEMIES :

The state government will encourage and financially support to set up one or more Sports schools/Academy's where high-end facilities and competent coaches in the selected sports discipline would be provided along with residential accommodation for all the talented players. All common services like gyms, sports doctors, trainers, masseurs, entertainment, extra-curricular activities etc. would be made available.
